Some Members of Temperance and Moral Reform League Are Criticized.

AYBAST COMES TO FORTUNE'S DEFENCE

J. D. Blayney Urges That All Questions of Politics Be Eliminated.

There was not complete harmony last night by any means at the annual meeting of the Temperance and Moral Reform League. The Rev. W. D. Fortune, provincial secretary, argued to be the least of the critics, and at one time there was quite a lively scene between him and Edgar Richardson.

The incident occurred just after a supposed representation of the "Victims' Association" had been made, and Fortune was speaking of the infraction of the license law, which, he says, are taking place daily by the wholesale and retail men, and even went so far as to mention one or two specific instances. Mr. Richardson wanted to know if Mr. Fortune had applied to the attorney general's department for the application of the law in connection with these cases.

"Kid Game Business," Mr. Fortune replied. "If he had, Mr. Richardson (with some warmth) thought it too much to give blame to the dealer with the attorney general's department. Mr. Fortune: "You require at all. They can't find out. But we know the thing is going on."

Mr. Richardson: "What response have the government officers made to your information?"

Mr. Fortune: "No response at all. They can't find out. But we know the thing is going on."

Mr. Fortune again figured in the incident when the Rev. Tom Powell, of Grace Methodist church, spoke with reference to a proposal that had been made regarding the reform in the area of the license districts. Mr. Powell thought the suggestion was to be done, and he said an argument was to be formed in the future in the organization during the present local option campaign.

Mr. Fortune: "I have learned to fight for the first time that our efforts in organization were a failure. Township after township has been thoroughly canvassed by the liquor men and anxious for the vote."

Mr. Powell: "A good deal of the organization."

Mr. Fortune: "A good deal of the organization."

PREMIER DISCUSSES WATERWAYS JUDGMENT

Definitely stating that the debt of the province is just what it was on December 31, 1912, namely $14,000,000, and no more, despite the false statements of opposition newspapers and politicians, who are using the judgment just handed down by the court as an excuse for grossly exaggerating the debt of Alberta, and correcting other misleading information which has already been circulated regarding this matter, Premier Brown last night went fully into the details of the judgment, and expressed his opinion regarding the matter.

The generally expressed opinion among the legal fraternity and business men here is that while the appeal of the Royal Bank has been upheld, there is nothing in the decision handed down which states that the portion of the province in the matter was wrong, and the judgment is generally regarded as a compromise.

This is also the opinion held by Mr. Brown and expressed by him last night after he had an opportunity of studying carefully over the details of the decision rendered here.

A compromise judgment.

The "called reports indicate that the judgment is apparently a compromise," he said. "The judges have expressed a full belief that it was in the power of the province to pass the legislation in question insofar as the railroad commission, the construction company and the Royal Bank were concerned, but have strained a point in their anxiety to protect the bank, which, in spite of its being protected, was not in position to the east, and who, under no conceivable circumstances would desire to do what the court apparently thinks they might do, namely, present their case to the bank and make a deal with it. The bank, however, was not desirous of doing this nothing would please the government better, as our special anxiety was to protect in every possible way the interests of the bank."

Asked as to his opinion as to the general effect of the judgment, Mr. Brown stated that the general effect points toward some arrangement with the bank.

An arrangement with bondholders.

The general effect will appear to point toward some arrangement with the bank, and the fact that the judgment is a compromise, it would like to clear up a misapprehension, which is being fostered by some newspapers to the effect that the result of the judgment is a compromise. The $14,000,000 involved, with interest, is still in the hands of the bank, and the fact that bonds to an equal amount are outstanding, for which that money is held by the Royal Bank, is a fact which does not add to the credit of the provincial treasury. It is a fact which does not add to the credit of the provincial treasury. It is a fact which does not add to the credit of the provincial treasury.

The trick of taking the sale for instance of $14,000,000 of bonds which replaced an equal amount of treasury bills, and the adding of both to the total of the province's debt, is a trick which is being played by some newspapers to the effect that the result of the judgment is a compromise. The $14,000,000 involved, with interest, is still in the hands of the bank, and the fact that bonds to an equal amount are outstanding, for which that money is held by the Royal Bank, is a fact which does not add to the credit of the provincial treasury. NEWS OF SOUTH SIDE AGED MAN IS LOST IN WINTRY WEATHER

John A. Stewart Missing Since Wednesday Noon—Reported Seen at Ellerslie on Wednesday Night—Relative's Analysis About Whereabouts.

Friends of John A. Stewart of 315 Third Avenue N.W. are anxious to get information or clues that will help them in their search for him. Mrs. Stewart first missed him at noon on Wednesday. After a thorough search of the neighborhood his disappearance was reported to the police. The police searched no clue.

On Friday night Mrs. Stewart, in her despairing anxiety, appeared at the south side Bulletin office. The notice in the Friday morning Bulletin had brought no response or information of the whereabouts of her missing husband.

Had Been Seen South.
A telephone message to Walker's at the southern end of the rural line, however, brought the news that a man answering to the description of Mr. Stewart had been seen at the Ellerslie station at a point on Wednesday. Mr. Walker, the station foreman, had talked to a man who had walked along the track from the city.

The man asked "How far from here is there?" and then returned to the station. The man returned to the station and told how he had been seen. The man, replied that he did not want to go that far.

McIntyre said that the stranger seemed to be rather odd in his dress and appearance. He was wearing two train wear hanging by at the ends. He seemed to be coming along the track and he did not want to go that far.

Went Out South.
After the train passed the stranger walked on through the woods, occasionally looking back. He seemed to be in a hurry, so he would not likely be struck by a train. The man would not come along for over four hours.

The Bulletin told the Mounted Police of this claim and they are making enquiries at Lethbridge.

Wandered Off Last Fall.
Last November Mr. Stewart wandered away and turned up at a farm house south of Ellerslie. The man, who was seen at the farm house, told him that he had been seen at the farm house. The man, who was seen at the farm house, told him that he had been seen at the farm house.

Was Nearly Killed.
"Though the weather is cold and it is a long time since the time when Mr. Stewart was last reported to have been seen, still he may survive the weather. He is 67 years of age, rather stout, with light mustache.

He is at times a little childish, but perfectly sane, though he gives his relatives and friends considerable worry by wandering off.

Anyone having any clue to his whereabouts, please notify the Bulletin office by telephoning to Mr. Keeler, 2220, or to R. C. Pollock, 2412.

Stewart Reported Near City.
A South Side citizen reported to the Bulletin that he had seen a man who may have been Mr. Stewart, walking along the road near the South Side cemetery on Friday afternoon about three o'clock.

PRIVY COUNCIL HAS DECIDED IN FAVOR OF BANK

Decision of Final Court of Appeal
Upholds Royal Bank in Its Case.

LORD CHANCELLOR GIVES EXHAUSTIVE JUDGMENT

Province is Held to be Justified in Cancelling Agreement With Great Waterways Railway.

London, Jan. 31.—The judicial committee of privy council today allowed the appeal of the Royal Bank of Canada against the judgment rendered in it by the supreme court of Alberta.

Lord Chancellor Halsbury, in delivering judgment said that the appeal involved questions of the greatest importance and proceeded to review exhaustively the grounds of the appeal. He described the provincial government's agreement with the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway company, the situation in 1910, the sale of bonds, and other matters leading up to the appointment of a Royal commission of enquiry. While this commission was sitting, there was a change of the provincial government.

The new administration introduced and passed two statutes and on the validity of one of these the question was to be decided in this appeal.

Default of Railway Company.

The statute after reciting that in the preamble that the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway company had made default in payment of interest on the bonds and in consequence of the line, and then setting out and confirming the guarantee by the province of the bonds, proceeded to enact that the whole of the proceeds of the sale of bonds, and all interest thereon, including such part of the proceeds of the sale of bonds as was then standing in various banks in the name of the treasurer of the province or otherwise, and comprising inter alia six million dollars with accrued interest in the appellant bank, should form part of the general revenue fund of the province free from all claims of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway company, and be paid over to the provincial treasurer without deduction.

"It was also provided," said the Lord Chancellor, "that notwithstanding the form of the bonds, the guarantee the province of Alberta should, as between itself and the railway, be primarily liable on the bonds and should indemnify the company against any claims for damages or loss by interested parties."

"By another statute passed at the same time any person claiming to have suffered loss or damage in consequence of the passing of such act might submit his claim to the government."

The Legal Steps Taken.
The Lord Chancellor went on to give the summary of the steps in the legal proceedings following the claim for damages by the appellant bank.

Continuing he said: "The Lord Chancellor was not concerned with the merits of the political controversy which gave rise to the statute whose validity is now in question. What he has decided is the question whether it was within the power of the legislature of the province to pass the act of 1910."

They agree with the contention of the respondents that, in a case such as this, it was in the power of the legislature subsequently to repeal the act which it had passed. It was the only question which arose the appeal could be disposed of without difficulty. The respondents had considered more than twenty legislative enactments. It appears to be appropriate to the present case to state that the respondents had considered more than twenty legislative enactments. It appears to be appropriate to the present case to state that the respondents had considered more than twenty legislative enactments.

Reference To Other Judgments.
Incidentally as the case was argued in judgments of learned judges on the courts below," went on the Lord Chancellor, "their judgments were not so satisfied that what appeared to be the fundamental principle of law was at issue has been adequately considered. It is in fact established principle of English common law that when money has been received by one person which, in justice and equity, belongs to another person under circumstances which render the receipt of it a receipt by the defendant to the use of the plaintiff, the latter may recover as for money had and received to his use. The principle established in cases where money has been paid for consideration that has been given and mortgages of that year."

Precedents Quoted.
The present case appears to fall within the broad principle on which judgments in the case of Wilson v. Church proceeded. The bondholders in London remitted their money to New York to be applied in carrying out a particular scheme and established by the statute of 1899 and orders in council, and by contracts and mortgages of that year. "The minor claim in the action was paid to the Royal Bank, as one of those designated to act in carrying out the scheme. The bank received the money at its branch in New York and its general manager then gave instructions from its head office in Montreal to the manager of its branch at Edmonton to pay the amount of a credit for this special account. The local manager was told to act on instructions from the head office which related to the."

Decision of the Privy Council is Matter For Further Consideration

Premier Elton stated in an interview with Bulletin yesterday morning: "I have read with interest the report of the decision of the Privy Council in regard to the appeal of the Royal Bank. I was very much surprised at the ground given by the court for their decision, as the bondholders were not in any respect parties to the action, and it was generally admitted by everyone that their rights were amply secured by the legislation. Any action that may be taken in regard to the matter will be a question for further consideration."

Opinion on Decision.
Local opinion on the decision of the Privy Council in the appeal of the Royal Bank is that, while the appeal of the bank has succeeded, there is something in the judgment which states that the action of the province in the matter was wrong. The decision merely intimates that the Government of Alberta passed legislation which was ultra vires because the money belonging to the bondholders in London, deposited in the Royal Bank in Edmonton, was under direction from the headquarters of the bank in Montreal so its disposition.

Back at Starting Point.
As a matter of fact the decision shows clearly that neither the Royal Bank nor the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway company have any interest in the money other than as trustees and therefore the funds are not subject to any claim by them. The bonds are redeemable in a short time, and at any rate it is now open to the province to make arrangements with the bondholders with regard to the manner in which the money is to be applied.

All that the decision does is to place the matter where it stood before the legislation was passed by the Legislature.

Hon. J. H. Boyle's Statement.
Hon. J. H. Boyle stated yesterday: "I would not care to say anything with regard to the A. & G. W. until I have seen the actual text of the decision. While it is reported that the decision is against the province, I am not in a position to say in what extent it is. I cannot say whether the province is to be held liable for the loss of the money, and the Government needs to do it to take up the bonds, which I understand are redeemable shortly."

Bank Not Entitled to Lien.
The bondholders are entitled to the money and apparently the Royal Bank is not entitled to the lien. The judgment is favorable to the province, I think, in this respect at least that it clears the air of any claim by the Royal Bank on the construction company. I don't look upon it as an adverse decision to the Government at all.

It was necessary to go to the Privy Council in order to ascertain the rights of the bank and of the construction company. It is now quite open to the province to go to the bondholders and offer them the money. The decision is not an adverse decision to the Government at all.

All that can be said to be lost to the province as a result of the decision is the element of the lien, and inasmuch as it was agreed between the counsel that there should be no costs to either party, even that element of "victory" for the bank, insignificant as it is, disappears.

This special account was opened solely for the purpose of the railway, and that when the action of the Alberta Government in 1910 altered its conditions the bondholders in London were entitled to claim from the bank at its head office at Montreal. The bank had advanced money for a purpose which had ceased to exist. Their right was a civil right of the province and the legislature of the Province of Alberta had no right to legislate in derogation of that right. "These circumstances," said His Majesty, "distinguish this case from that of the King vs. Lovell, where the point decided was in reality quite different one. In the opinion of their Lordships the effect of the provincial statute of 1910, if validly enacted, would have been to deprive the Royal Bank from fulfilling its legal obligation to return their money to the bondholders, whose right to this money was civil right which had arisen and remained enforceable outside the province."

The Summing Up.
"The statute was on this ground beyond the powers of the legislature of Alberta, inasmuch as what was sought was to deprive the bondholders of their money."

ITEMS FROM THE LOCAL WORLD OF LABOR

The establishment of a Labor House in Edmonton is probably the first great undertaking of the present administration of the Trades and Labor Council. The idea of such a house has been made necessary because of the rapid growth of trades unions in the city. The maintenance of a house will necessitate considerable expense and it has been thought advisable to approach the city council with a view to securing a loan for the matter will be taken up in detail at the next regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council on February 2nd.

Although organizing and representation of trades and labor unions in Edmonton will take place during 1912. The movement set on foot by the Trades and Labor Council promises to be widespread in every branch of the building trades and in many unions which heretofore have not been affiliated with the central council. The appointment of a salaried general secretary and business agent has made it possible for the work to be begun under favorable auspices.

Meanwhile, the general secretary, in thoroughly conversant with every detail of his work.

Representation on the Board of Trade and on the Library and Hospital boards will be asked for shortly by the Trades and Labor Council. It is thought that such a representation would materially promote the welfare of the laboring classes. In carrying out its progressive program the council has been seriously handicapped through non-representation on these boards.

LABOR LEADERS DO NOT APPROVE.

The recent action of the United Arts Society in approaching the city council with a view to securing a grant for the establishment of a working girls' home, will not receive the support of labor leaders in the city. The concern of opinion is very strongly against taking such a step, the majority regarding with astonishment the action of the society. In his opinion the only solution of the working girl problem was increased pay and shorter hours.

In an interview with a Bulletin reporter, a well-known business agent said:

"If conditions in Edmonton are such that working girls are compelled to seek for assistance from charitable societies and institutions, it is in this progressive day, in a country which boasts of unbounded opportunities for the working classes, a girl is unable to make an honest living by honest work, then there is something radically wrong with the system under which she works."

To my knowledge few girls are receiving more than $3 a week. Most of them receive only $4 and $5. It tends to reason that a person depending entirely upon his or her own resources can not live comfortably or well on such a pittance."

According to business agents a great deal of harm is being done by social publicity articles and to Bulletin and American publications. In these articles a wrong impression is often given of existing conditions. The following report which labor men gave to the municipal information bureau at Edmonton, has announced that 300 laborers are required in the various civic departments of that city, and that as many more men could find employment with private contractors.

The railways also need hundreds of men. The city's wage scale is thirty cents for nine hours, and it seems an hour for overtime. There is no Sunday work. Contractors are offered as high as 15 cents an hour for nine hours, and 10 cents an hour for overtime. Every laboring man in Edmonton is employed. Bricklayers, carpenters, electricians and other skilled workmen also are in demand. Mr. Holmes states that there are no vacancies in critical positions. In fact, there are seventy-two persons on the waiting list.

Amendment to Compensation Act.

An amendment to the Workmen's Compensation act will be taken up at the next session of the provincial legislature. It is proposed to amend the act in such a way that the class of proof in case of injury to workmen will rest entirely upon the employer and not upon the employee. It is stated that because of the present wording of the act, it is impossible to secure compensation in the majority of cases.

A motion was given by the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers No. 243 at Tuesday evening. A moving address was presented by A. Farnham, general secretary of the Trades and Labor Council. In which he outlined the program of organization now being carried out in the city together with certain other work the council had undertaken for the present year. Thomas Howell, of the Amalgamated Union of Carpenters, also gave an address in which he outlined the program of the union of the province and mentioned the various departments of that city, and that as many more men could find employment with private contractors.

LABOR JOURNALISM HERE.

I. T. English, secretary of the Alberta Federation of Labor and of the Alberta Industrial Union, spent several days in Edmonton this week. He was in the city to attend a special session of the federal council of the International Brotherhood of Bricklayers, which was held at the Hotel Vancouver. Mr. English, who is a member of the Edmonton labor council, is a member of the federal council of the International Brotherhood of Bricklayers, which was held at the Hotel Vancouver. Home Market Improvement.

The general industrial situation showed a marked improvement from the standpoint of labor unrest during the months of November and December as compared with the preceding months of 1911. According to the record of strikes, the number of days lost from this cause was approximately 175,000, compared with 250,000 during the corresponding months of last year.

According to the record of industrial accidents submitted by the Department of Labor, 113 workmen were killed and 416 injured during the month of November, compared with the record for October, which was 103 killed and 416 injured. There were nine more killed and forty-seven more injured during November.

The great number of fatal accidents occurred in the railway service, particularly in the building trades, the figures for which were 29 and 13 respectively. The largest number of fatal accidents occurred in the railway service, the record being 125, followed by the metal trades with 72, and by the building trades with 72.

The labor news of Calgary are up in arms against the compulsory vaccination of school children. The clause of the provincial health act, which the new regulation states that no pupil shall be admitted to any school in the province after January 1, 1913, until he has been vaccinated, is being vigorously protested. At their regular meeting recently the Calgary Trades and Labor council passed unanimously a resolution condemning this regulation.
